Bonnie Blanchard

Bonnie Blanchard has long been respected in the Seattle area as a versatile freelance musician and a dynamic instructor of award winning students. She holds music and teaching degrees from the University of Washington. She began playing flute when she was 19, and later engaged in a series of private instruction on piano, violin, viola, voice, and flute. A flute instructor for 35 years, Bonnie has had the opportunity to work with many of the world's greatest flutists and teachers. Her creative ideas and unbridled enthusiasm for teaching have consistently produced students who win top awards in local and national contests and earn college and conservatory scholarships. Her former students include the Professor of Flute at the University of Washington, principal flute in the Army Field Band, and second flute in the Houston Grand Opera. Most importantly, her students excel at their instrument and love what they are doing. The rapport Bonnie cultivates with her students and her unique teaching techniques create musicians who develop the skill and a lifelong love of music that helps them achieve in other areas of their lives. Bonnie, with her sister Cynthia Acree, is the author of Making Music and Enriching Lives: a Guide for All Music Teachers, which addresses not only how to teach the specifics of music, but also how to motivate and inspire students. Their second book, Making Music and Having a Blast! A Guide for All Music Students, which won the American Library Association 2010 "Best of the Best" award, is packed with ways to make learning music easier and more fun and is an invaluable resource for students, their parents, and teachers. Bonnie is becoming increasingly well known as a pedagogue. She has contributed articles to Flute Talk magazine and Todo

Flauta, the magazine of the Flute Association of Spain, and been quoted in American Music Teachers magazine. She has given pedagogy speeches for the Seattle Flute Society, the National Flute Association, the Washington Music Teachers Association, the California Association of Professional Music Teachers, The Music Teachers Association of California, and the Music Teacher National Association national conventions in 2005 and 2009.

Bonnie Blanchard is the author of: "Making Music and Enriching Lives" and "Making Music and Having a Blast!" which will be available for purchase at the workshop.
